We are becoming so inured to vulgar and untruthful abuse (on paper) that yesterday seemed like a mental holiday. Many of our friends called in during the day to offer their congratulations, thinking the Buzzards were "knocked out" and had permanently withdrawn our eighth pare advertisement (for which they pay). This is probably a premature supposition. We have given them six months to either "weaken" or go under, and hardly think it probable that they have "tumbled" so soon.

The natural tendency of prices was up-ward, among which can be named boots and shoes, iron, lumber and other commodities. Although the tax was reduced upon these and other things, we struck a rising market with the passage of the McKinley Bill, and all this is laid to it.

Judge Thurston thinks that Nebraska and every other Western State will go Republican in 1892. He said:

I think that there will be a revival of stalwartism in the Republican party such as to make 1892 a great Republican year. as to make 1892 a great Republican year.
Republican workers all over the country did not take an active part in this campaign.
They felt as though their services to the Republican party had been undervalued, but in 1892 these persons will be at work in support of some candidate who will arouse enunsiasm, and these very men will lead to victory as heretofore. The result of the recent elections has not put an end to the Presidential chances of either Mr. McKinley or Thomas B. Reed, but it has probably postponed their dates, and Blaine or Alger would be winners at the head of the ticket

AN OUTLAW'S SUICIDE.

Joe Jackson Jumps Sixty Feet Onto, a Solid Brick Floor. JACKSON (Miss.,) Nov. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] Joe Jackson, one of Rube Burrows's gang, confined in the penitentiary waiting trial for train robbery, whose trial was to have begun this morning, suicided by jumping from the third floor of the corridor to the ground, a distance of sixty feet. His neck was broken. Jackson provided himself with a large knife, and when the officers unlocked his cell door he rushed out and ascended to the upper floor, where for some time he defied them. Finally the officers closed in upon the prisoner, when suddenly he plunged from the lofty perch to the brick floor. Rube Smith, also an alleged train robber, is now on trial.

THE DAMRON CASE.

Taking of Testimony for the People Closed.

CHADWICK IS STILL MISSING

The Expert Evidence Unbroken on Cross-examination - The Defense Will Begin Today -Court Notes.

All of the evidence of the prosecution in the case against James M. Damron, charged with forgery, is now in, and today the de-fense will commence the introduction of such evidence as they may have in an endeavor to save the prisoner from a term at San Quentin.

San Quentin.
The evidence brought out yesterday was largely of a similar character to that already developed. No new facts were proven, but must be admitted a very strong cass has it must be admitted a very strong cass has been made.

Chadwick is still missing. This important witness for the people can be found nowhere. Yesterday it was rumored that he was sojourning at the Arrow Head Hot Springs. Deputy Sheriff Brady was dispatched to ascertain what truth there was in the story.
If Chadwick returns, it is understood that the defense will place him on the stand.

the defense will place him on the stand.

MORNING SESSION.

The first witness called to testify yesterday morning was S. M. Perry. Mr. Perry, on being shown a copy of a note bearing his indorsement, denied positively that he had ever signed the paper. He was not cross-examined.

G. A. Hough, the expert, was recalled next. He was shown the two Hervey Lindley notes and some papers that are a part of the Superior Court records, and that are known to be in the handwriting of Damron. Mr. Hough gave it as his opinion that the party who wrote the name Hervey Lindley to the notes also wrote the body of the papers.

LADIES' ANNEX.

Regular Weekly Meeting Vesterday—Comm ttees Appointed.
The regular weekly meeting of the Ladies' Annex was called to order at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by President Wilder. The ladies were requested to take the ladies were requested to the signature E.T. Wright to a $150 note by comparison with writings known and admitted to be his.

the signature E. T. Wright to a $150 note by comparison with writings known and admitted to be his.

All told, some seven or eight tests were shown the witness, which he swore he had closely examined and compared. On cross-examination the witness explained and gave reasons why he thought some of the tests introduced were either not written by Mr. Damron, or if written by him he was endeavoring to disguise his hand. The witness was in no way mixed up by the many confusing questions put to him by counsel for the defense. The weight of his damaging testimony was in no way broken. What he did swear-to went to show that he had made a most careful study of all of the papers submitted. He gave it as his opinion that the party writing the tests given him for comparison by the defense did not write the signature E. T. Wright to the forged notes. It was, he said, a more difficult matter for an expert to give an opinion upon disguised or simulated writing rather than on a natural hand.

At this juncture the prosecution announced that after a little more testimeny from Deputy County Clerk Fanning they yould close their case.

Mr. White announced that he desired to cross-examine Judge Shaw further. A Deputy Sheriff was dispatched to bring in both witnesses.

cross-examine Judge Shaw turner. A openuty Sheriff was dispatched to bring in both witnesses.

Frank Fanning, Dernity County Clerk, on being recalled, testified that he thought he knew the handwriting from having seen him write. He was shown the forged notes, and swore that from his knowledge of Damron's writing he would give it as his opinion that the names E. T. Wright and Hervey Lindley were both written by James M. Damron.

In cross-examination the witness said that for the bast four or five years he had been familiar with Damron's writing. He had seen him sign his name on numerous occasions, and write other things which he could not locate. He did remember of his writing an order of default in the case of Maidonado vg. Maitdonado. He was shown all of the tests introduced previously by the defense, and which were shown Expert Hough. He was asked if, in his opinion, Damron wrote any of the tests. His reply was that none of the tests were in Damron's ordinary handwriting.

of the tests were in Damron's ordinary handwriting.

After Mr. Fanning left the stand Judge Shaw was recalled by the defense for the purpose of cross-examination. He was shown the tests introduced by the defense, but gave it as his opinion that they were not in the handwriting of Damron.

When Judge Shaw left the stand the people announced that their case was closed. An adjournment was taken until 10 a. m. today.

Murphy and others, in September last, interfered with Receiver I. H. Polk, appointed by Judge Ross to operate the Seuthern California motor road running between Colton and San Bernardino.

Receiver Polk desired to connect this road with the Southern Pacific by putting in a switch at Colton. This displeased some parties, who had Polk arrested for maint ining a nursance. The parties were then cited to appear and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. The result is that Murphy is fined $100. D. C. The initial fioral exhibition of the Southern California Floral Society, which opens tonight at Hazard's Pavilion, promises to be a brilliant affair. All day Saturday and yesterday load after load of choice blooms, hardy and exotic ornamental plants, shrubs and trees were each awaiting their turn to be unloaded at the doors of the pavilion, while on the inside a veritable army of the practical growers, both amateur and professional, were busily engaged in arranging their special exhibits in unique and original designs. The many rare plants from the private conservatories of this and other citles, and from the commercial growers will be an agreeable surprise to the general public, showing many growths not familiar but to a few, while the fine exhibit of economic and ornamental forest trees to be made by the State Forestry Commission, through State Forestry W. S. Lyon, will not only be interesting but one of the most instructive displays ever seen in this section. E. D. Sturtev nt's exhibit of rare water Illies will be a feature, while the collection of late and choice varieties of chrysanthemums kindly sent out by Peter Henderson & Co., the celebrated growers of New York, will interest the many lovers of this now ever-popular flower. As before announced, the ground floor of the Pavillon has been laid out in the form of a flower garden, while upon the stage will be the exhibit of large plants, shrubs and trees, giving the entire exhibition the appearance of a dense forest in the distance, and a be utiful garden in the foreground. Immediately in front of the stage will be arranged the cut-flower display in 2000 receptacies, all of uniform size and pattern, interspersed w

The entire exhibition will be in shape by 3 o'clock this afternoon, when the judges will pass upon the several exhibits, while at 7 the doors will be thrown open to the general public.

The object and aims of the society in holding this exhibition are to stimulate and encourage among the people of Southern California a love and taste for flowers, plants and trees, and it is believed that these exhibitions, of which this is only the initial one, are well calculated to advance cultural ideas in this direction, and to further tend to make the name of Southern California still more famous for the beauty of her homes and her gardens. Gov.-elect M rkham's well known and lively interest in all that pertains to the advancement of practical horticulture and kindred subjects has long been known to the people of this section. In view of this fact many leading cit zens, and particuraly those directly interested in the objects of the of this section. In view of this fact many jeading cit zens, and particuraly those directly interested in the objects of the society, have requested him to honor the opening night with his presence, and to formally declare the exhibition open in an address in the interests of the advancement of the subjects above referred to. Afternoon Session.
The Council met promptly at 2 o'clock outh President Frankenfield in the chair, and a quorum present.

SENSATIONAL EPISODE. Immediately on the Council convening President Frankenfield called Councilman

Bonsall to the chair, and taking the floor said that he desired to detain the Council a few minutes on a question of privilege, and, after a few preliminary remarks, s ying that he held in his hands a copy of THE TIMES containing a report of a meeting held at Illinois Hall, in which one of the speakers had made a personal assault on himseff, and other members of the Council, addressed the Council as follows, reading from manuscript: from manuscript:

To the Honorable City Council—GENLTE-MEN: A public meeting of citizens was nich the Citizens' Water Compan on the evening of November 7, at Illinois, Hall in this city, composed of gentlemen, by the Health Officer as a scattery of the Health Offic Hall in this city, composed of gentlemen, many of whom were personal friends of my own and of other members of your body, and of which meeting and its purposes I shall say nothing, as it was held in the exercise of a right which every citizen has under our form of government, viz: to criticise the action of the existing administration. The remarks at this meeting of one G. Wiley Weils (a man of unsavory reputation) were, however, of such a nature as to call for a reply from this Council, and especially from myself.

1st. He s.y.s. "They have caused walks to be laid in this city that had to be laid four times over." He created the impression thereby that this Council accepted, work sich thereby that this Council accepted work of an inferior nature which had to be reof an inferior nature which had to be repaired by property-owners, when, in fact any but the most ignorant know that the walks referred to were relaid by the contractor under the direction of this Council, and at the contractor's expense, who was compelled to relay the same over and again until it complied with the specifications—all being done in the interest of the property-owner, and without expense to him.

He says, "There is a street in this city which one Councilman is working to get opened at an expense to the whole city of $64,000." This is, as the smooth individual knows, a lie, as the expense of street opening can only be assessed upon the property directly benefited and cannot be taken from the city at large.

directly benefied and cannot be taken from the city at large.

Again, referring to myself, this oily and unsavory person says: "He has been the dictator of this Council and the Council has cowardly yielded to his dictates." This, gentlemen of the Council, and as far as I am personally concerned I do not propose to allow it pass.

It is true that at the late Republicad primaries G Whey Wells was a candidate for delegate to the late Republican Convention and stood at the polis personally all of the afternoon soliciting votes for himself. It is also true that eighty out of 140 voters of his ward at such primaries, for reasons easily imagined, scratched the name of this olegations gentleman from the list of Republican candidates, and, in many instances, without my request, placed my name on the tickt instead, by reason of which I was elected instead of the person in question. I suppose that because the Republican voters of that ward did not desire to be represented by a person of such many myself. I should not care so much if this malicious personal attack upon myself. I should not care so much if this malicious personal attack cemanated from a reputation and preferred me instead, is the cause for this personal attack of the personal many that the street be ordered curbed and trade from the personal attack cemanated from a reputation for profligacy was so notorious so to cause his name and picture to be published all over the country in the notorious Solice Gazette, showing him in a position rather undignified, to say the least, in a great (2) mor I reformer, I feel that justice to myself demands that I at least pay this person some slight attention. He has been a political leech all his fife first a department cirk at Washington, next an attaché of the Freedmen's Bureau in Mississispi, next a carpiet-bag.

District Attorney of the most partisan and venomous stripe, next elected to Congress on a bolters' ticket, where his record was such that he never had occasion to return to his constituency; next an appointment a Republican United States Separte refused to confirm for the reason that charges had been sustained ag inst his reputation, and which are now on fite in the archives, and which are in regard to matters which are too indecent to mention here; a lawyer whose practice is confined principally to that of defending prostitutes, gamblers, Chinese fan tan players, "mass" and criminals generally, a stirrer up of litigation; a contingent fee lawyer, whose reputation for truth is so bad that his word will not be taken for anything by the members of the bar, and whose sneaking, lying, shyster practices at the bar has stumped him as an object to be despised. A man who, through malice and spite, built a division fence so as to shut off the view and sight from the property of a defenseless widow, whose only offense consisted in erecting a house appon her own property and placing the same nearer the sidewalk than the tuilding of the wife of this person, which fence stands today as a monument to his spleen and venom.

I believe in reform, 1 believe that this person should reform, and that he needs reformation in more ways than political, but like the finger post at the crossroads he is continually pothring out the way which he never goes.

In view of all these facts it is not surprising that one of this character should have attempted to mistead the public into believing that the money to be paid out for the opening of Broadway is to be paid from the city treasury, when it is a fact, and he knows it, that the money for this purpose will be raised by assessment from the property-owners along this street, and that my proportion for the cost. Had he taken the pains to, investigate, he would have ascentained that no Council has been unable to proceed against the bondsmen for the repair of the street. Councilman Bonsall objected, saying that statements had been made by the president which were a revelation to him, as he had always considered the person referred to as a pretty respectable sort of a min, and he could not, therefore, vote on the adoption of the remarks at this time. Councilman Hamilton replied that no statement had been mide which had not been pretty well discussed, either here or elsewhere, but after some further talk on the statement of Councilman Wirsching that the speech would probably be reported in the newspapers, the matter was disposed of by the clerk being instructed to enter on the minutes a note that President Frankenfield, speaking to a question of privilege, had replied to an assault on him by one G. Wiley Wells.

MISCELLANEOUS The report of the City Attorney was then taken up, and the various recommendations adopted.

A number of requisitions from the various departments for necessary supplies were read and granted.

W. S. Lyons, of the State Board of Forestry, appeared before the Council and invited the councilment to attend the opening of the floral exhibition at Huzard's Pavilion, tonight, in a body, and occupy seats on the platform, saying that Gov.-elect Markham had consented to be present and open the exhibition with an appropriate address.

On motion of Councilman Summerland, the invitation was accepted with thanks.

An ordinance providing for a general municipal election on Monday, December 1, as required by law, appointing officers for the same, and fixing the polling places, was read and adopted. The nine wards of the city are divided into forty-seven precincts, as at the recent State election.

THE HARBOR BOARD.

Visits to the Ballona and Redondo.

BOTH BUSINESS AND PLEASURE

The Advantages at Both Places Care fully Considered -The Engl-neers and Their Escort

The Board of United States Harbor Ea-gineers were full of business yesterday, and while they are about the closest-mouthed set of officials that ever visited this city, it is pretty certain that they have made up their minds as to which point, out of those which they have, examined on this southern coast, to select for a deep water harbor.

Asper agreement with the Ballona Har-bor and Improvement Company, they vis-ited Ballona yesterday and spent the greater portion of the day looking over this little harbor and the surrounding country.

During the past few days George C. Eagles and James Campbell of the Ballon company have been arranging for the trip They chartered a special train and invited company nave been arranging for the trip. They chartered a special train and invited quite a number of prominent capitalists and members or the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce to escort the engineers to Ballona, and at S. o'clock yesterday morning M. L. Wicks and K. Cohn, of the Chamber of Commerce, D. Furguson, E. D. Gibson and the following members of the company met at the Santa Fé Dapot at the foot of Second street: L. Mesmer, president; J. Bernard, vice-president; J. James Campbell, general manager; George C. Eagles, secretary and treasurer, and Joseph Mesmer, director.

The train ran through to Dan Freeman's place, and picked him up, and a short distance this side of the junction the engineers and Col. Treichel of the Soldiers' Home were picked up. The board spent Sunday at the Home the guests of Col. Treichel, and that gentleman drove them over in time to catch the train.

The party reached Ballona shortly before o'clock, and went to work at once. They elimbed the sand hills where they could get a fine view of the proposed inland karbor, and were then rowed up and down the channel. All of them asked a number of questions and seemed to think Ballona can be made a deep-water harbor in a short time at a comparatively small cost. The company has already, spent $800,000 can be made a deep-water harbor in a short time at a comparatively small cost. The company has already spent $8300,000 and has demonstrated that bars will not form in front of the outlet, but on the other hand the channel is becoming deeper and deeper and with proper dredging a depth of twenty-five feet can be had at low tide in the harbor. The engineers consider it a natural harbor, and from the interest they seem to take in the matter they evidently think it can be dredged at a small cost.

After visiting every part of the harbor in boats the party returned to the train and found an ample lunch awaiting them. Wines and liquors of all kinds were served, and for an hour and a half the engineers and their escort gave themselves up to pleasure.

EXECUTIVE SESSION OF THE RE-

W. F. Bosbyshell Elected Chairman -None of the Members Will Accept of Nominations -The Republicans.

Committee of One Hundred of the Citizens Reform Movement in room 1, of Illinois Hall, at the corner of Sixthand Spring streets last evening.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p. m., the attendance being quite large. The first business was to exclude everybody from the room except members of the committee. This was forthwith done, and the mittee. This was forthwith done, and the doors were thereupon closed.

In the haliway a number of citizens congregated to await the result of the meeting. What was done is not known positively, but from what was let drop on the outside by members of the committee it is understood that W. F. Bosbyshell was elected chairman.

It was also stated that a resolution was adopted whereby every member of the committee piedged himself to, under no circumstances, accept an office or a nomination for office, either elective or appointive. It was also alleged that a number of the committeemen resigned and these vacancies were filled. The committee consists of ten members from each ward and ten from the city at large.

which was discussed, and on motion was laid on the table until the next meeting of the committee will be filled. Col. G. Wiley Weils proposed the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, that no member of this Committee of One Hunored shall be nominated to any city office, and pledge ourselves that we will not seek or accept any city appointment. We declare that we meet as citizens to select candidates for the various city offices, without regard to their politics of former political affiniations, seeking only the best men who will pledge—themselves—to run the city government—on business principles.

At this rate, it will take at least ten days to finish the work. The Storey system is perhaps sure, but it is very slow.

REPUBLICANISM is rife in Belgium. THE funniest political prediction that we have come across lately is the following, from a weekly sheet published during the campaign in San Francisco by Carl Browne, the vagrant "artist:"

Among oth-Agricultural machinery firms are also preparing to turn out machinery expressly adopted to the sugar beat cul-

It has been shown, many times, that our soil and climate are well adapted to the growing of sugar beets. Practial experiments have been made in the Camenga region and at Chino, in San Bernardino county, with most encouraging results. If we are to continue to grow, we must introduce manufacturing enterprises. The sugar beet industry, while employing agriculturists, also furnishes work to a number of men in manufacturing, hauling, etc. It has been proved to be a thorough success in the northern part of the State, at Watsonville. Why cannot it be introduced here? AN EMPTY VICTORY.

Mr. Blaine recently called attention to the fact that from the time of John Quincy Adams to that of Abraham Lincoln every President was confronted during the last two years of his term by a hostile majority in one or both houses of Congress. For many years past the "off year" has been adverse to the Administration, but the hostility has not lasted.

Referring to this fact the Chicago Inter Ocean says:

Inter Ocean says:

Fixing the termination of the war era in 1876, after which time Congress was not very greatly busied, with issues directly growing out of the strife of 1861-65, we lind Mr. Hayes confronted by 157 Democrats to but thirty-six Republicans in the House of Representatives of his first Congress, This, however, was not an off year. The popular vote of 1876, which elected the Congress of 1877, had given Mr. Tilden a plurality of 187,037. But the second Congress of Mr. Hayes and administration showed 180 Democrats and ten Independents in the Lower House, against 131 Republicans. Nevertheless, Garfield carried the Electoral College by 214 against Hancock's 155 votes, though in the year of his election the retarns to the lower house stood, Republicans, 182; Nationalists, 10; Readjusters, 2; to 159 Democrats. And in the "off year" of 1883, Chester Arthur being acting President, the Democrats had 19 members of the lower house, against 124 Republicans and one Greenbacker.

Looking at this view of the case, it is very foolish for the Democrats to make very foolish for the Democrats to make such a fuss over their temporary advantage, an advantage which they obtain every four years only to lose again at the ensuing Presidential election. It they can be content with such empty honors, we can only say that they are very easily satisfied.

AT a meeting of the Republican City Central Committee yesterday, a plan Monica, Ballona, Redondo and San for the caucuses and primary elections, practically similar to that outlined by the Chairman, Walter S. Moore, and will be a difficult matter for the experts already printed in THE TIMES, was adopted. Under this plan the city is divided into small precincts and a large representation is given. A resolution was adopted urging Republicans to take an active interest in the caucuses and primaries in their precincts, and to act independently, shut-ing out repeaters, stuffers and ward and strikers. To facilitate this, voting is confined to those who voted at the last election. The reform atmosphere has permeated both the old parties, and it will certainly have some good effect, even if it should not do all that might be wished.

THE CROP REPOR otatoes and Corn Will be Solds Prices High. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—[By the A sociated Press.] November returns to the Department of Agriculture of the rates of yield per acre make the average for corn 19.9 bushels; potatoes, 57.5; buckwheat, 14; hay, 1.20 tons; tobacco, 718 pounds. The corn crop makes the smallest yield reported, except that of 1881, which was 18 bushels. It is 83 per cent, of the average of the last ten years, and only 73 per cent. of last year's crop. The decline of the last decade is not due to the impairment of fertility, but unfavora-ole meteorological influences.

The average rate of yield of potatoes The average rate of yield of potatoes is 57.5 bushels. The condition of the crop in October was lower than any reported previous crop, except 1887, being 61.7, against 61.5 per cent., when the rate of yield was 56.9 bushels. Its imrate of yield was 30.9 busness. Its import is scarcity and warrants high prices. The yields of hay are large as a rule throughout the country. The cane sugar crop will be large, and sugar beets have done well west of the Missouri, indicating the probably rapid development of the sugar industry.

Referring to the relations between labor and capital, the Premier said that if they had an eight-hour bill forbidding men to exercise their strength and skill an hour or two more, thus imposing hindrances on production, they must be prepared to meet as a natural esult the victorious competition of other countries, where labor was not so embarrassed. The government, he declared, would not interfere at all in-the disputes between capital and labor. Local Gas Company War Results in the Railroad Commissioner Receiving a Broken Head -Assailant Punished.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 10-By the Associ-

Thomas Rea told Secretary Walker

Gillespie that he wished his stock in the company transferred to his son, James W. Rea. The reason, he said, was that Uriah Wood and other members of the com-pany, during the campaign, had created the report that Commissioner Rea had abused the trust of his father and misused his funds. He desired to give the lie to the statement and show confidence in his son by transferring confidence in his son by transferring all of his stock to him. Gillespie made insulting remarks and when warned by Commissioner Rea to desist, redoubled his abuse. Mr. Rea, Sr., prevented his son and Gillespie from coming to blows, but Gillespie from coming to blows, but Gillespie finally ran for his pistol. Commissioner Rea headed him off, when Gillispie picked up a heavy steel bar and struck him three hard blows on the head, making big gashes and nearly felling Rea to the floor. By a super-human effort the commissioner rallied and dealt Gillispie a stunning blow on the neck with pie a stunning blow on the neck with his fist. Then he grabbed him by the collar and punished him until he begged for mercy. Rea is one of the principal stockholders in the new the principal stockholders in the new light company, which has secured all of the public business and a large por-tion of the private lighting, and the feeling against him on the part of the members of the old company is very bitter. The wounds in his head are severe and bled profusely, but serious results are not apprehended.

Cattle Disease Declared to be Completely Wiped Out.

Prejudice, Not Plearo, Hinders the Exportation of Live Stock.

Demand to be Shortly Made for the Removal of the Re-strictions at British Ports.

By Telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The attention of Secretary Rusk was today called to a re-port cabled, in which British Min-ister of Agriculture Chaplin is represented as opposing the removal of the restrictions of the British Government on the importation of live cattle from the United States. The Secretary said that Chaplin was taking the side of those whose interests led them to op-pose the free introduction of American stock cattle, and seemed to forget that this country had abundant evidence that there exists among the purchasers of stock in England and Scotland a wide-spread feeling in favor of the unrestricted importation of cattle from this country, provided they can be al-lowed to enter with perfect safety to British cattle.

The secretary construes the resolu-tion recently adopted by the Agricul-tural Council to mean that it is simply a question of time when the British government will feel obliged to re-move the restrictions from any country which can show conclusively that the disease has been eradicated. The disease has been eradicated. The Secretary says: Just as soon as sufficient time has, in my opinion, elapsed since the last case of pieuro-pneumonia occurred in this country I shall make an official declaration of its complete eradication and shall strive to satisfy the British government that the disease does not exist here. If this strive to satisfy the British government that the disease does not exist here. It this does not secure the withdrawal of these restrictions, Engl.nd will have to at least abandon the charge of the unhealthfulness of our cattle as the cause. There are buyers as well as sellers abroad, and they will probably see to it that their interests also receive some attention.

Referring to Secretary Chaplin's assertion that pleuro-pneumonia still exsertion that pleuro-pneumonia still existed here, Secretary Rus said:

I unhesitatingly challenge Chaplin to point out a single case of pleuro-pneumonia now existing among American cattle. Of course I cannot tell what is his source of information, but whatever it is he is grievously misled. One thing is certain, and that is it is now over six months since any allegations have been made by British officers of the discourse of pleuropneumons. officers of the discovery of pleuro-pneu-monia among cattle from the United States landed in Great Britain.

Bad News From London Causes an Unprecedented Decline.

A Slight Rally Occurs Before the Closing Hour-The Great Excitement Kills a Broker on the Floor.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. .10 .- [By the Associated Press.] A flood of alarming cables from London and Paris predicting disasters in the markets there this week caused a panicky feeling in the Stock Exchange here. Long before the opening brokers tried to make sales of stocks, but could not find buyers, and as soon as the signal for beginning business was given no offers were made, but every bid, no matter at what price, was at once filled. This selling caused Manhattan Elevated to fall from 100 to 92, a decline of 8 per cent. Western Union fell 51. Other stocks, with the exception of Vanderbilts, fell 2 to 6. The declines since Saturday afternoon were the largest ever seen over night, and losses of fractional amounts were exceptions. Drops of 1 to 31 covered nearly the whole active list. There was more of a panicky feeling than noticed at any time during the present decline. Stocks were thrown over in the most reckless manner, causing a most feverisb, unsettled market, but with a steady decline in values.

Even after the heavy opening further declines of 1 to 4 per cent. were scored, the most prominent movement being a DROP IN MANHATTAN, which after opening off 4 per cent. at 96, retired 4 per cent further to 92 in the first minute's business. Trading reached enormous figures, but while the bottom seemed to drop entirely out of the market, there came a more unit feature. out of the market, there came a more quiet feeling toward the end of the hour, and some stocks actually recovered a portion of the early loss. The market remained, however, in an extremely leverish, unsettled condition, and at 11 o'clock, while less active, it was weak at or near the lowest prices for most stocks. for most stocks.

At noon money was tight. There were no offers and 15 was bid. After 11 o'clock the heavy pressure was removed from the stock market to a certain extent, but stocks continued to come upon the market and prices continued to decline. The Grangers, tinued to decline. The Grangers, Villards and New England were the chief sufferers in the decline. DIED FROM EXCITEMENT.

His friends noticed recently that he has not been looking well, and his doctor gaid that the excitement today undoubtedly was too much for him. Before 2 o'clock the general railway list rallied and the market continued to gain strength up to 2:30 p.m., when the quotations show-d a recovery of 1 to 2\frac{1}{4} per cent. in a number of stocks, with Lackawanna, Atchison, Burlington and Quiney, Northwestern, St. Paul. Pacific Mail bore the banner for weakness, and with a drop of 22 touched 351. The downward movement then met with a check, and while there was less animation, as usual when the pressure was removed, the whole list rallied materially and before the delivery hour most of the active stocks brought up to within about one per cent. of the opening figures. At 2:15 the market was dull and quiet at

Were scored. Later, however, sugar, which had been nearly neglected during the early part of the day, came to the front with a sharp drop from 57 to 51½, and the general list was affected to some extent. The market finally closed active and weak, close to the lowest prices, notwithstanding a rally of 2 per cent. in sugar.

LOSSES FOR THE DAY.

LOSSES FOR THE DAY.

The heavy declines of late without a failure on the street emphasize the fact that for a long time stocks have not been held to any extent upon the street or a broker's margin. Prominent speculators characterized the ports of an epidemic of cholera among

The final losses are very material, and St. Paul is down 5½ Pacific Mail and New England each, 5 Sugar4½. Louisville and Nashville 4½, Erie 3½, North American and Lackawana each 3½, Northern Pacific preferred 2½, Jersey Central 2½. No Action by the Treasury. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Secretary. Windom was kept fully advised of the condition of the money market today, but did not feel called upon to take any action in the matter beyond the any action in the matter beyond the purchase of what silver bullion was offered to the department. The Director of the Mint said that this was done for the relief of the market. The available treasury cash balance will be used principally in the redemption of the 4[†] per cent. loan. The Secretary's offer of October 9 to redeem this class of bonds on presentation at par with interest for maturity. Septempar with interest to maturity, September 1, 1891, is still open. Bonds are coming in very slowly, however, and the total redemption to date is less than $5,000,000.

Similar Declines in the London and Boston Markets. LONDON, Nov.10.—|By Cable and Associated Press.] Stocks are weak today. At 12:30 p.m. everything was lower. Canadian Pacific fell off 14. St. Paul, common, 31; New York Central 2t per cent, others smaller amounts. At the close, prices compared with Canadian Pacific and 1½ for St. Paul common.

The feeling of alarm and apprehension as to the result of the coming settlement was intense. American railroads were panicky. The depression was especially marked in the dealings in the street. On cable advices reporting declines in New York heavy sales were made here. The drop in American railroads ranges from 1½ to 5. Several financial houses in Paris are trying to induce the Bank of France to assist English firms to complete the engagement to deliver £500,000 of gold in Madrid during the week. THERE WAS A RUSH, a shout and business was once more resumed on the floor. This scene, as well as that when the recess was an nounced, was characteristic of the tremendous excitement pervading the market today. When the death was first announced scores of brokers without waiting to hear anything about it, rushed off in mad haste to make the best use they could of the time in making up their accounts.

The rush to sell after the recess. caused by the fatal incident, caused the lowest prices of the day, but with the exhaustion of selling orders which then appeared, a number of brokers who had been heavy sellers in early dealings turned and bought heavily.

said:

Of course, as any one can see by looking at prices, there are very great depressions, but there is no doubt that the market would have righted itself if the trouble in London had not come up. How much further things will go I do not know. I only know that any one who has the courage to buy now and the patience to wit will make money. So far as I know anything about the different properties, especially those that I am interested in, they are all right, and there is no reason for the present low prices. I suppose that six months from now we shall look back upon these prices and, comparing them with prices then, will say "how ridculously low they were." History repeats itself. I have seen within the last few days very good evidence of the amount of money going into Wall street to buy stocks, principally not on margin, but outright. This amount will likely increase, and when it gets so that buyers are more numerous than sellers the market will turn. The railroads are all doing very well. The large movement of freight now going on is being carried at better rates, and all the roads have better understanding with each other than for many years.

GEN. M'PHERSON'S BRILLIANT CA REER AND HIS TRAGIC DEATH.

Captain in 1861 and an Army Com mander in 1864-With Grant at Donelson, Shiloh and Vicksburg, and Failing Heroically at Atlanta.
[Copyright by American Press Association.]

N moments of ex-alted daring there were sacrificed to the north during the civil was Kearny at Chan-tilly, in 1862; Rey-nolds at Gettys-burg, in 1863, and McPherson at At-lanta, in 1864; and to the south,
"Stonewall" Jackson at Chancellorsville, in 1863.
All of them fell while acting from what may be called a strained sense of duty. They were not in battle proper, and, with the exception of Reynolds, were hit when outside of their own lines. Reynolds had but a single line of men between him and the enemy when he fell, and that line was fighting almost hand to hand.

Of these four choice spirits in war MePherson was undoubtedly the ablest commander, judged by what he had accomplished. Kearny was good at the head of a division. Reynolds had distinguished himself as a division and corps commander, and fell in his first essay as commander-inchief on the field, while Jackson, who startled the world as a lieutenant to Lee, achievad very little whenever he was brought in contact with his peers, as he was in two or contact with his peers, as he was in two or contact with his peers, as he was in two or three important occasions. McPherson was a military success from the very start, and he started almost at the lowest round of the ladder—captain in the regular army. While Gen. Halleck was organizing the western forces in the winter of 1861-62 Mc Pherson served on his staff, and in May 1862, was promoted to be brigadier general of volunteers. He was on Gen. Grant's staff and served as his chief engineer at Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Corinth and uka. He was always desirous of active field daty, and at the outbreak of the war had applied for such service. On Oct. 2, 1862, he was given command of a brigade of troops, and after the battle he led the column in and after the oather he led the column in pursuit with his own five regiments and a battery. In another week he was made ma-jor general of volunteers, and given a divis-ion in Grant's army. When Grant attempt-ed to reach Vicksburg in the rear by march-ing overland through Northern Mississippi ing overland through Northern Mississippi McPherson commanded the right wing of the army. After that movement was aban-doned Grant reorganized his army, and Mo-Pherson was assigned to the command of the Seventeenth army corps. This was in January, 1863, and was but little over a year-from the time of his promotion from the rank of captain.

In the second campaign against Vicks burg from the rear McPherson exercised a command equal to Sherman's and showed the stuff that was in him. At Port Gibson, just after the army crossed, he led two of his brigades in person in a flank attack, and the enemy was forced from his position. In front of Raymond, on the march toward Jackson, in the Confederate rear, toward Jackson, in the Confederate rear, McPherson had the right wing, and was met by about 5,000 Confederates, with two batteries favorably posted beyond a creek Logan's division was ordered up, and with out awaiting supports McPherson made a vigorous attack, sending the enemy flying with a loss more than double his own. From Raymond McPherson moved eastward in conjunction with Sherman, and soon came up with the enemy's pickets two miles outside the Mississippi state capital, Jackson, where the Confederate general-inhelf in the west, Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, had gathered a large force to operate on Grant's rear while attacking Vicksburg from the east. Both Sherman and McPherson put their troops in readiness to assault, but McPherson's advance division bore the brunt of the attack, sustaining 80 bore the brunt of the attack, sustaining 80 per cent. of the loss, and pushing on to the very intrenchments at the first bound, finally carrying them before the enemy could remove or destroy their cannon, then holsting the Starsand Stripes over the Confederate state house while the hostile tread yet resounded in the streets.

When Grant advanced from Jackson to Vicksburg, closing in on the rear of the Confederate army of defense under Gen. J. C. Pemberton, McPherson commanded the right wing, and his advance division, under Logau, held for some time the only road by which the Confederates could retreat. Grant, unaware of this advantage of McPherson's, shifted the line so as to ancover the road when the enemy retired toward Vicksburg. An eye witness relates gaged in a conflict on this road so terrific that Grant stood listening in wonder and admiration, finally sending an aid expressly to tell his generals that they were "making history today." The battle of Champion's Hill lasted four hours, Me-Pherson doing about all the work. When the army settled down to the regular siege of Vicksburg McPherson's command the center. Now he was firm in his high position, was the compeer of Sherman, and a lieutenant trusted and honored by the general-in-chief. When Grant at lest turned over his command in the west to Sherman, and assumed the control of all the armies, McPherson suc-ceeded the latter at the head of the Army of the Tennessee, then over 60,000 strong, and when Sherman set out on his cam-paign to Atlanta, followed him in person with about 25,000 of his troops, the Fif-teenth corps under Gen. John A. Logan, and the Sixteenth under Gen. G. M. Dodge.

and the Sixteenth under Gen. G. M. Dodge.
In the battles before Atlanta the new commander of the Army of the Tennessee proved his fitness for the role and displayed the highest and best quality of a seldier—capacity for leadership. His army fought at New Hope Church and Dallas in May, and, after the addition of the Seventeenth corps, under Gen. Frank P. Blair, at Kenesaw mountain in June. As the forces drew near to the intrenched city McPherson was on the left, and well to the east, while Sherman's main strength lay along

Peach Tree creek on the north. On the 20th of July a fierce battle took place at Peach Tree creek. About this time Gen. John B. Hood superseded Gen. Joseph E. Johnston at the head of the Confederate army defending Atlanta, and an attack at Peach Tree creek was the first step in a new policy. Hood was a fighter, and fought with a gambler's recklessness and daring. His battle of the 20th was a bold lunge with the army corps of Stewart and Hardee against Sherman's center. But "Pop" Thomas, the "Rock of Chickamauga," was there, and Hood nearly dashed his brains out, so to speak, losing 5,000 men against less than 2,000, and withdrew to his own lines.

On the 22d of July Hood made a second On the 22d of July Hood made a second sortie, surpassing the first in boldness and involving a blind night march of fifteen miles for Hardee's corps, from Peach Tree creek to a point on the Confederate right beyond McPherson's line or near Decatur. The Georgia railway, supplying the army in Atlanta, ran through Decatur, and MoPherson's army was drawing dangerously near to it. The plan for the Confederate sortie of the 22d aimed at the complete destruction of McPherson. Hardee was to move his corps silently from the works in front of Thomas, march way beyond McPherson's left flank and form and attack the Seventeenth corps, under Blair. Hood's own corps, led by Gen. B. F. Cheatham and occupying trenches east of Atlanta, and occupying trenches east of Atlanta, was to follow Hardee for a distance, pass was to follow Hardee for a distance, pass beyond and take up the battle against any Union folces sent to support Blair's left. Blair rested his flank upon a wooded ele-vation known as Bald hill. Among the happehings of the event was the fact that Dodge's Sixteenth corps, during the after-noon and night of the 21st, had been placed in support of Blair's line. On the morning of the 22d McPherson ordered this corps to move to the left of on the morning of the 22d ArcTherson ordered this corps to move to the left of Blair and extend his line to the south. At noon Dodge had both his divisions, Sweeny's and Fuller's, halted near Blair's flank and was making dispositions to carry out his orders. McPherson at the moment was at Sherman's headquarters consulting with his chief. Suddenly there was an authorise formal consultance of productions and such part of marketing ways. outburst of musketry away beyond Blatr's left, where no hostile troops were supposed to be. Mounting in hot haste, McPherson galloped to the scene of attack.

Sweeny's division met the first attack but Fuller's men, infantry and artiller were promptly pushed up in support. The Confederates emerged from the thicket upon open ground, there to find muskets and cannon in menacing array to receive them. Banners waved, officers shouted and implored, great guns played in unison, and blinding volleys of musketry swept over the field. Participants were maddened with the rage of conflict and spectators were spelibound. McPherson was looking on from an elevated spot, and with delight saw the mash assaliants hurled back by the sturdy veterana of the Seventeenth corps. But the boldness of the attack told him that it was no mere collision, for the Confederates, if there at all, would be in force. The attack had found Dodge out of line as it had been ordered to be formed, and McPherson now repeated his commands for Dodge to assume position on the left of Blair. At the same time he saw that the Confederate fank was overlapping Blair's left, and that there was a dangerous gap between the two corps, Blair's and Dodge's—a gap in the line of battle and an enemy whose strength was unmeasured rushing forward to the attack!

Every soldier knows what that situation means to a commander.

Every soldier knows what that situation means to a commander. It was such a gap, caused by a faulty movement, that cost the Union army the battle of Chickacost the Union army the battle of Chickamauga. It was such a gap that Gen. Hancock saw and promptly closed by ordering a forlorn hope charge on July 2 at Gettysburg, warding off disaster. McPherson ordered Blair, whose line was steadfast, to send a brigade quickly to his extreme left, to occupy the space between his Seven teenth corps and Dodge's Sixteenth while the latter was taking a new position. Then he passed along the line, sending aids in all directions to carry his instructions. in all directions to carry his instructions. When he came to the ground where he had ordered a brigade from Blair to fill ne gap he found no line at all.

Could it be that the commander had missed his way and gone too far? If so he might be lost, and the fatal gap left open to the enemy; and if he had not arrived some other troops must be brought up at once. Here was an emergency no vigilant general could intrust to the care of other hands. He had two or three aids and an orderly for escort, and without halting he led the way along the unoccupied ground toward the Confederate position. Just now a new element came into the conflict. During all of this fighting Hardee had been working up the Union line on Blair's front, and in accordance with the plan Cheatham's troops had reached the field. Cleburne's division of this corpe was just passing on to support Hardee, and saw the space unoccupied in the Union line. As McPherson's party entered the woods looking for the missing brigade some of Cle orderly for escort, and without halting he McPherson's party entered the woods looking for the missing brigade some of Cleburne's men gave them a volley. Then followed the demand, "Halt! Surrender!" One aid's horse went down, the order! was hit, and McPherson, quickly turning back, was also hit, and fell down heading from the saddle. His wounded orderly spoke to him, and in a moment he was dead. So fell the leader of an army with 50,000 men within call, any one or all of whom would have died to save him.

can Read His Bible in the Dark

When Henry G. Stevens, of Bridge port, Conn., sits down to read his Bible a person watching him might think he had a pile of thin cedar boards in his lap, and as he turns leaf after leaf they reachle and fall with a thud. Another remarkable thing about Mr. Stevens reading his Bible is that he needs no light to search the Scriptures with, and it is not necessary for him to look at the book. He has the biggest, heaviest and queerest Bible in Connecticut. He is a deaf and blind soldier of the rebellion. His wonderful Bible was presented to him by the American Bible society, and it cost $28 to produce the book for him.

It is n eight volumes, with embossed print, and he reads it by touch, feeling the letters; yet he is apt and quick at that kind of perusal. The whole eight volumes are quite a lift for a man of or-dinary strength. Each volume is 151 inches long, 12 inches wide and about 6 inches thick. Pile the volumes one on another and the aggregate thickness of the stack is 3 feet and 8 inches. Altogether there are 1.849 leaves in the Bible, on each one of which is a full page of raised letters. Mr. Stevens is 51 years old, and began to study raised letter reading less than three years ago. He is now a ready reader.-Cor. New York

The Question of Contagion An exchange makes light of the idea that there may be danger in the tubes of the phonograph. It holds that there is no danger in the barber's chair or the wash room or door handles, etc. The same shaving utensils are used for dif-ferent men, the same towels, and all sorts of people handle the same door knobs and no harm is done. How did the exchange learn that, through these and other means of connection, disease was never conveyed?

Did the exchange never hear of the barber's itch? Do not unaccountable sores appear upon men of pure blood and correct habits? How are cholera and correct inforcer how are enough and smallpox and yellow fever and skin diseases conveyed? In the case of the phonograph there is no danger so long as the instrument is a private one, as there is none where one's own shaving utensils and towels only are used. But ntensils and towels only are used. But public phonograph which is operated to pickel in the slot process is a dif-

rerent matter. The two prongs are not only handled, but thrust into the ears as only nanded, but thing the ears as close to the drum as possible, and put into many pairs of ears daily. There may be no danger from the prongs, but it is well enough to wipe them thoroughly with your handkerchief before puting them into your ears to hear Gil. ly with your nandkerchief before put-ting them into your ears to hear Gil-more's band play "Annie Rooney."—

An Entertainment in Wooster Hall.

A ROUND SUM FOR CHARITY

Cleared at the Chrysanthemum Fair-Comment on Topics of Local Interest-Brevities and Locals.

A considerable number of people gathered in Wooster Hall last night to witness an enjoyable entertainment given by local talent for the benefit of the charity organization society. The same performance had been presented one night last week and was repeated by popular request.

The entertainment consisted chiefly in the presentation of a sketch entitled "Examination Day," written and arranged by Mrs. Stetson and Mr. Scharff. The authors assumed the principal roles, and a lot of bad and stupid school children were personified by well-known young ladies. The feature of the performance was Miss Dexter's very humorous rendition of "Barbara Frietchie." The costume and ges-Frietchie." The costume and gestures could not have been improved upon. The Polymnia Quartette was also present and contributed its full share to the evening's amusement.

Thus closed the Chrysanthemum Fair, which proved a success financially and otherwise. The exact receipts have not yet been estimated, but the lowest figures place the net profit at over $100. A number of the flowers remained in the half last night.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

When the assertion is made that a great number of Eastern people will visit California this winter it can be set down as a plain, perpendicular statement of facts. The railroads know this and are putting forth special says he will hereafter turn his attention to the Santa Fé. Bring on the efforts to make the trip as pleasant and stoves. inexpensive as possible. One of the trunk lines proposes to run four splen-did trains from New York to this coast at intervals during the winter which will surpass anything of the kind yet attempted. The tourists will travel by a special train of Pullman vestibule drawing-room, sleeping, dining, smok-ing and observation cars. The train will be equipped with ladies' maids, a Section of facilities and interpretation of the effort of the second and third count of the effort of the second and the count of the effort o stenographer and typewriter, barbershop and bath rooms for ladies and gentlemen. English Grain Review.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Mark Lane Express says: Both the supplies and demand for English wheat have lessened, and prices are firm. In several provincial markets prices have advanced 6d. Foreign wheats are steady. The arrivals of American and Indian are larger than expected, and have slightly weakened selling. Corn, oats and barley show a tendency to advance. Today English wheats firmly held. Foreign wheat is quiet on all but the best whites, on which 6d reduction is offered in order to effect sales. Flour is steady, corn 6d higher, barley and oats firm.

CATARRH.

THROAT DISEASES, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS AND CON-SUMPTION uccessfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.

M. D., M. C. P. S. O. 137 SOUTH BROADWAY. Los Angeles, Cal., By his Aerean system of practice, which consists of proper Medicated Inhalations and COMPOUND OXYGEN TREATMENT.

Probably no system of practice ever em-ployed has been so universally successful as the Aereau system of practice as introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Caistra, Throat Diseases, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his a ton shment at his remarkable tendency to contract fresh celd. Indeed, he declares that he is scarcely free from one cold before he lakes another, and he is always exceedingly east full it is also a matter of surpras to him the lakes and the raise and the said of the symptoms of catarrh seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptons soon per and he learns to his horter that, instead of covering from the disease, it is somewhat the covering from the disease, it is somewhat the covering from the disease is sometimes (close that it is sometimes (close and covering from the disease has covering for it is a some disease as the covering of covering from the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its drea full work. Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slowind the patient may in expressing his condid at hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years and has not seemed to become much werse, and trusts that he will "by and by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error that has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.
